

McCormack Chiropractic SC Highlights Personalized Chiropractic Care and Injury Recovery Services in Washington County

October 20, 2026

WEST BEND, WI - October 20, 2026 -

McCormack Chiropractic SC is highlighting its approach to personalized chiropractic care for individuals experiencing musculoskeletal discomfort, sports injuries, and accident-related conditions. Based in West Bend, Wisconsin, the family-owned practice provides a range of services designed to address patients' individual needs, with an emphasis on the Gonstead Chiropractic method, injury assessment, and supporting mobility. With more than 55 years of combined experience, the practice continues to serve the surrounding community, including individuals seeking chiropractors in Allenton, WI.

Established in 2002, McCormack Chiropractic SC brings together professional experience and individualized attention to address a variety of chiropractic concerns. The practice was founded after its doctors worked in Milwaukee, and its continued presence in the West Bend area reflects a commitment to providing accessible care for local residents. As a woman-owned, family-operated business, the practice focuses on understanding the circumstances surrounding each patient's discomfort rather than treating every complaint as identical.

Chiropractic care can involve more than addressing occasional back pain. Neck discomfort, headaches, restricted movement, joint problems, and symptoms associated with injuries may interfere with everyday activities, work responsibilities, and recreational interests. McCormack Chiropractic SC evaluates individual concerns and develops care approaches based on each patient's condition and needs. The goal is to help patients better understand their musculoskeletal health while identifying appropriate options for improving comfort and function.

A central component of the practice's approach is the Gonstead Chiropractic method, a technique that emphasizes evaluating spinal alignment and applying specific chiropractic adjustments. Treatment decisions depend on the findings of an individual assessment, allowing care to be tailored to the patient rather than delivered through a uniform process. The practice also provides extremity adjustments, expanding its services beyond the spine to address concerns involving other joints and areas of the musculoskeletal system.

Sports injuries represent another area of the practice's experience. Physical activity can place demands on muscles, joints, and connective tissues, and injuries may affect both athletic performance and ordinary movement. McCormack Chiropractic SC has a certified extremity and sports injury practitioner on staff, supporting its work with individuals experiencing activity-related discomfort. An individualized evaluation can help determine which chiropractic services may be appropriate and whether additional medical assessment is needed.

The practice also works with patients experiencing injuries associated with automobile accidents and workplace incidents. These situations can involve symptoms that affect mobility and make routine responsibilities more difficult. McCormack Chiropractic SC provides care for auto accident injuries and workers' compensation cases, helping patients address their chiropractic needs following an injury. Appropriate assessment and documentation can be important parts of navigating recovery, particularly when treatment is connected to an insurance or workplace claim.

Disc bulges, carpal tunnel symptoms, and rotator cuff injuries are among the additional conditions addressed by the practice. Because similar symptoms can arise from different underlying causes, an evaluation is important when determining the appropriate next steps. Chiropractic care may be one component of a broader care plan, depending on the condition and clinical findings. When a concern falls outside chiropractic scope, referral to another medical professional may be appropriate.

Access to appointments is another aspect of the practice's services. McCormack Chiropractic SC offers same-day appointments and welcomes walk-ins, with emergency services available for urgent chiropractic concerns. These options provide flexibility for people whose symptoms develop unexpectedly or whose schedules make advance planning difficult. The office serves West Bend, Washington County, and surrounding communities, including people looking for chiropractors in Allenton, WI.

The practice also accepts most major insurance plans, including UnitedHealthcare, UMR, Anthem, Humana, Medicare, and Medicaid. Work-related and personal injury cases are accepted as well. Payment options include cash, checks, and major credit cards. Coverage varies by plan and circumstance, so patients may need to confirm specific benefits and payment responsibilities before beginning treatment.

By combining established chiropractic techniques with services for sports injuries, accident recovery, and everyday musculoskeletal concerns, McCormack Chiropractic SC continues to provide care to the West Bend community. Its emphasis on individualized evaluation, varied treatment services, and appointment accessibility reflects the practice's ongoing role in local healthcare. Additional information about services, office hours, and new-patient forms is available through the practice's website at drsmccormack.com or by calling (262) 600-4884.
