

NextReno Launches Website Showcasing Construction and Renovation Services Across Ontario and the Greater Toronto Area

November 11, 2026

MISSISSAUGA, ON - November 11, 2026 -

NextReno, an engineer-led construction and renovation company serving the Greater Toronto Area, has launched a new website designed to serve as a central destination for homeowners, business owners, and organizations exploring construction and renovation projects. The website allows visitors to review service details, view examples of completed work, and prepare to discuss upcoming projects with the company.

Founded in 2017, NextReno has spent several years developing its approach to general contracting across the region. While the company itself is well established, the new website marks the first time its full range of residential construction and renovation services and commercial work has been organized into a single online resource. The launch is intended to make it easier for prospective clients to understand the scope of projects the company manages before an initial conversation takes place.

Through the website, visitors can explore kitchen and bathroom renovations, basement renovations, full-home remodelling, home additions, custom homes, and commercial projects. Each service area includes descriptions and examples intended to help property owners understand what a given project may involve. The site also features a Plan, Design, and Build overview that outlines how NextReno guides projects from initial concept through completion, giving clients a clearer picture of each stage before work begins.

NextReno positions itself as a general contractor that manages complete construction and renovation projects rather than individual repair calls. The company's work is guided by an emphasis on communication, quality, budget control, and schedule management, with a single point of contact overseeing each project from planning through handover. Residential work includes custom homes, additions, full-home renovations, basements, kitchens, bathrooms, and complete interior transformations, while the company's commercial experience spans retail, restaurant, and medical spaces.

"The website was built to help people understand what a project actually involves before construction starts," said Hasib Samit, speaking for NextReno. "When clients can see examples of completed work and review how the planning, design, and build stages fit together, conversations become more focused and expectations are clearer from the outset."

The company serves communities throughout the Greater Toronto Area, including Vaughan, Etobicoke, Mississauga, Oakville, and Burlington. Its residential renovation services in the Greater Toronto Area are directed at business owners, property investors, and organizations managing retail, hospitality, and healthcare spaces.

The NextReno name reflects the company's long-term objective of becoming a client's first call for future projects. The approach is built around practical solutions, clear communication, and organized delivery intended to earn trust that extends beyond a single renovation.

"The name is a reminder of how the company measures success," Samit added. "The goal is to complete each project in a way that makes homeowners and businesses comfortable returning for their next one."

NextReno is a construction and renovation company based in Mississauga, Ontario, serving the Greater Toronto Area since 2017. The company provides residential and commercial services ranging from basement, kitchen, and bathroom renovations to home additions, custom homes, and fire and water damage restoration, with a focus on disciplined planning, clear communication, and managed project delivery from permits through completion.
