M66 Cannabis Outlines Published Conditions for Its Delivery Service

October 21, 2026

BARRYTON, MI - October 21, 2026 -

As Michigan?s regulated adult-use cannabis market continues to mature, licensed retailers have developed defined conditions for services that provide alternatives to in-store purchases. Clear parameters help establish consistent procedures for those services. M66 Cannabis, operating as a recreational provisioning center in Barryton, has published the conditions that apply to its existing delivery service. Deliveries are available Thursday through Saturday from 12:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. and within a radius of up to 20 miles. The company also states that deliveries can be completed only when the delivery address matches the address on the customer?s identification.

These conditions establish the documented boundaries of the service. The schedule identifies the days and hours during which the operation functions. The radius defines the geographic limit of the service area. The address-matching requirement sets an eligibility standard that applies before a delivery can proceed. Product selection does not determine eligibility. The provisioning center makes available flower, pre-rolls, vaporizers, extracts, edibles, and tinctures, yet an order advances only when it satisfies the published schedule, radius, and address match.

The company presents the address-matching condition as consistent with its application of applicable regulatory expectations. It does not identify a specific regulatory provision or describe internal verification steps beyond the stated requirement. The published conditions therefore remain the sole documented basis for understanding the service?s operating limits. Orders that fall outside the schedule, exceed the radius, or present a non-matching address fall outside the circumstances under which the company indicates it can complete delivery.

Grant Nouman, Owner of M66 Cannabis, addressed the practical function of the conditions. ?The published hours, radius, and address-matching requirement establish a clear framework for the delivery service,? Nouman said. ?Applying those parameters consistently supports a defined process for determining whether an order can be fulfilled.?

The organization identifies cultivation and processing among its activities in addition to retail provisioning. The delivery service operates as an additional channel for items available through the provisioning center, subject to the conditions the company has published. No further operational details about production volumes or lounge-specific rules appear in the available materials.

Defined service boundaries form a practical component of regulated delivery operations as the adult-use market develops. At M66 Cannabis the stated schedule, radius, and address-matching requirement together define the framework for the existing service. These elements support consistent application of the published conditions. The approach prioritizes clarity in how the delivery operation functions within the regulated setting.

M66 Cannabis operates as a recreational provisioning center in Barryton. The company offers a variety of adult-use cannabis products including flower, pre-rolls, vaporizers, extracts, edibles, and tinctures. It also supports cultivation, processing, and provisioning operations through a Michigan-based team that emphasizes customer education, local roots spanning both peninsulas, and ongoing community involvement.
