LifeGuard Urgent Care Highlights Auto Accident Clinic Services

October 21, 2026

SPRING HILL, FL - October 21, 2026 -
LifeGuard Urgent Care is providing updated information about its existing auto accident clinic services, outlining available injury examinations, on-site diagnostic capabilities, and walk-in access at its Florida facilities. The service information addresses medical evaluation following motor vehicle collisions and identifies the clinical resources available to patients with non-life-threatening injuries.

The organization provides medical assessments for accident-related injuries, including back pain, muscle strains, sprains, and other musculoskeletal concerns. Its urgent care services are designed to evaluate conditions that require prompt attention but do not necessarily warrant emergency department treatment. Patients can receive clinical examinations without scheduling appointments in advance.

At its Spring Hill facility, located at 491 Mariner Boulevard, LifeGuard Urgent Care maintains examination rooms, a triage area, an X-ray room, and laboratory facilities. These resources support physical examinations, diagnostic imaging, and laboratory testing when clinically appropriate. The facility also provides electrocardiograms and other diagnostic services used to evaluate a range of medical conditions.

The organization maintains a second location at 8763 River Crossing Boulevard in New Port Richey. Both facilities are identified on the company's website as part of its urgent care operations, with services that include injury treatment, examinations, and diagnostic testing. The availability of individual procedures may depend on the facility and the patient's medical circumstances.

Medical professionals involved in the organization's urgent care operations include physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, registered nurses, and laboratory technicians. Their responsibilities include assessing patient symptoms, conducting examinations, and determining appropriate next steps based on clinical findings.

Following a vehicle collision, an examination may involve reviewing the patient's medical history, identifying areas of discomfort, evaluating mobility, and checking for signs of injury. Diagnostic imaging may be appropriate when clinicians suspect fractures or other conditions requiring additional investigation. More complex injuries may require evaluation by specialists or treatment in a hospital setting.

The organization's auto accident clinic services also address the importance of documenting clinical findings after a collision. Medical records can include reported symptoms, physical examination results, diagnostic findings, and treatment recommendations. These records support continuity of care when patients subsequently consult primary care physicians or other healthcare professionals.

LifeGuard Urgent Care's published service information identifies treatment for auto accident-related pain and injuries, including conditions affecting the back and musculoskeletal system. The organization also lists pain management procedures among its existing services. Treatment decisions remain dependent on individual examinations and medical necessity.

Patients requiring specialized evaluation beyond the capabilities of an urgent care facility may need additional medical services. Referral decisions depend on clinical findings, injury severity, and the resources necessary for further assessment. The organization has not publicly identified a new specialist referral partnership associated with this announcement.

The facilities' walk-in arrangements provide an option for individuals seeking assessment of non-life-threatening injuries. According to the organization's published operating information, the Spring Hill location is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and weekends from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The New Port Richey location lists weekday hours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The organization also identifies auto insurance among the coverage categories accepted at its facilities. Individual coverage, payment obligations, and applicable benefits remain subject to insurance policy terms and verification.

LifeGuard Urgent Care emphasizes that urgent care services are intended for conditions that can be managed safely outside a hospital emergency department. Severe trauma, uncontrolled bleeding, loss of consciousness, breathing difficulties, and other potentially life-threatening conditions require emergency medical attention.

The service information provides a more detailed account of the organization's existing capabilities and locations as patients consider appropriate medical evaluation following motor vehicle accidents.
