

Landmark Tree Care Expands Round-the-Clock Arborist Services for Storm-Damaged Properties

October 27, 2026

COLUMBIA, MO - October 27, 2026 -
Landmark Tree Care, a tree care company based in Boone County, Missouri, has outlined the role of its around-the-clock emergency response program as seasonal storms continue to bring down trees across Columbia and the surrounding communities. The company reports that crane-equipped crews remain on standby to extract fallen trees from homes, power lines, and driveways when severe weather creates hazardous conditions.

Missouri storms can turn standing trees into immediate threats within hours, leaving property owners to deal with blocked driveways, damaged roofs, and limbs tangled in utility lines. Landmark Tree Care in Boone County operates a response team that is available 24 hours a day to address these situations as they develop, reducing the risk of further damage before conditions can be stabilized.

The company, which operates with a team of ISA Certified Arborists, applies the same methods used in its routine work to storm response. Crews use modern equipment and established rigging and removal techniques intended to protect both workers and structures when trees fall near occupied areas. Each response includes cleanup and removal of debris once a site has been secured.

Beyond emergency work, Landmark Tree Care provides a full range of arborist services for property owners in the region. Tree removal addresses dangerous, diseased, or unwanted trees, while trimming and pruning support long-term tree health and the safety of surrounding areas. Stump grinding allows property owners to reclaim yard space, and tree and plant health care includes assessments, disease treatment, and ongoing care. Land clearing services prepare sites for new construction and landscaping projects.

"Storm damage rarely happens at a convenient hour, which is why the team stays ready to respond at any time of day or night," said Owen Alexander, Owner of Landmark Tree Care. "When a tree comes down on a house or across power lines, the priority is securing the site and removing the hazard safely before the next round of weather arrives."

Alexander began climbing trees at the age of 14 and trained under a third-generation arborist and Midwest tree climbing champion. That background shaped the company's emphasis on technical skill and sustainable tree care. Today, the team applies those principles to both scheduled projects and emergency calls throughout the region.

"Trees are long-term investments in a property, and caring for them properly requires both knowledge and respect for the landscape," Alexander said. "Every assessment starts with understanding the health of the tree and the needs of the homeowner, whether that involves routine maintenance or an urgent removal after a storm."

The company's arborist services combine certified expertise with sustainable methods intended to support the long-term health of trees and plants. Licensed and insured, Landmark Tree Care emphasizes complete cleanup and minimal disruption to the properties where its crews work. Additional details about the program are available through Landmark Tree Care emergency tree services.
