

Texas Pest Control Company Warns Against Dangers Of Pests, Bugs And Rodents

June 30, 2016

June 30, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bugs Or Us, a company in Houston, TX, has issued the warning that bugs, pests, and rodent infestations are incredibly dangerous to both structures and public health. They also pointed out that they have systems in place to save people from these nasty creatures. Full details about the services that they offer can be found on their website at <http://www.texasbugsortus.com/>.

Calvin from Bugs Or Us says: "Since 2001, our family-owned and operated business has successfully eradicated stubborn bugs and rodents from thousands of properties in Houston and the surrounding areas. From ants to bats, our team delivers exceptional customer service and strives to drive pests away from your home for good."

Bugs Or Us aims to save the world from bugs, one bug at a time. They have the experience to deal with any type of infestation and create customized plans for each of their customers rather than offering a one size fits all bugs solution. Additionally, they pride themselves on being available at any time, including for emergency situations.

The services that the company has offered have been very well received by their many clients. "A great company with great owners," says Stephanie S.F. on the company's Facebook page. "Picked them out of the yellow pages and very satisfied with their work. Would definitely use again and recommend."

Houston is known to be home to a number of different types of pests. Some of the most common ones are bed bugs, bird mites, cockroaches, and rodents. One of the particular services that Bugs Or Us offers is an eco friendly heat treatment method of ridding properties of bed bugs. They use a direct fired device for this that elevates the ambient temperature to a level that kills bed bugs, as well as other invasive pests. Because it is a form of heat treatment, it does not leave any dangerous pesticides or chemicals inside the property that are as dangerous to the environment and public health as what the bugs themselves are.

Further details about the company and the services that they offer can be obtained through their Twitter page, where they also share industry news.
