Crown Plumbing & Water Damage Restoration Announces Annual Disaster Relief Program and New San Antonio TX Plumber Locations

October 29, 2026

SAN ANTONIO, TX - October 29, 2026 -
Crown Plumbing & Water Damage Restoration has announced the launch of an annual disaster relief support program dedicated to assisting a family significantly affected by a fire or major disaster each year. The program will deliver combined plumbing and restoration services at no cost to a selected household, reflecting the company's growing capacity to address both plumbing failures and the structural damage that often follows.

The announcement coincides with the company's recent expansion, which includes the addition of water damage restoration services and the opening of two new locations. The first new site is located on George Road in San Antonio, Texas, and the second serves the community of Selma, Texas. Together, these developments broaden the service footprint of the company and allow it to respond to a wider area across the region.

The disaster relief program is built around a model that handles both the source of a problem and its aftermath. When a pipe bursts, a fire occurs, or a sewage backup floods a property, affected families often must coordinate separate contractors for the plumbing repair and the resulting cleanup. By combining these capabilities, the company aims to reduce that burden for the family selected each year.

"The idea behind this program is straightforward," said Jeremy Newman, of Crown Plumbing & Water Damage Restoration. "Families dealing with a fire or a major water event are already overwhelmed, and having to manage multiple contractors only adds to the stress. Addressing the initial leak and the structural damage under one roof allows the recovery process to move forward more smoothly."

The expansion of restoration services means the company now offers fire damage restoration, mold remediation and testing, sewage cleanup, asbestos removal and testing, and home remodeling and reconstruction. These services complement the company's established plumbing work, which includes installation, repair, water heater services, inspections and maintenance, and drain and sewer services such as hydro jetting and sewer line inspection.

Newman noted that the two new locations played a direct role in making the relief program possible. "Opening the George Road and Selma sites gave the team the reach needed to commit to this annual effort," he said. "The combined plumbing and restoration model is what allows a single provider to carry a family through the full recovery."

The company provides emergency plumbing and water damage restoration services around the clock, a factor that is central to disaster response where delays can worsen structural damage and health risks associated with mold and contaminated water.

Crown Plumbing & Water Damage Restoration is a San Antonio, Texas-based company offering plumbing and damage restoration services to residential and commercial properties. Its restoration division covers water damage, fire damage, mold remediation, sewage cleanup, asbestos abatement, and home reconstruction, while its plumbing division covers installation, repair, water heater work, drain and sewer services, and routine inspections and maintenance. With new locations on George Road in San Antonio and in Selma, Texas, the company serves a broad area across the region and operates on a 24/7 basis for emergency needs.
