

HHI Windows & Doors Showcases WinDoor's Coastal Window and Door Solutions at Bluffton Showroom

November 04, 2026

BLUFFTON, SC - November 04, 2026 -

Homeowners, builders, and design professionals in South Carolina's Lowcountry can explore WinDoor's architectural window and door products at the HHI Windows & Doors showroom in Bluffton. The collection includes large-format doors, contemporary entryways, and window systems designed to balance architectural flexibility with the performance considerations associated with coastal construction.

Located at 32 Malphrus Road, Unit 117, the HHI Windows & Doors showroom provides a setting where visitors can examine window and door products, compare materials and finishes, and discuss installation requirements with a local team. WinDoor is among the manufacturers represented at the showroom, offering homeowners an opportunity to explore options that may otherwise be difficult to evaluate through product photographs or catalogs alone.

The availability of WinDoor products is particularly relevant to properties in Hilton Head Island, Bluffton, and surrounding coastal communities, where homeowners must consider exposure to salt air, humidity, wind, and seasonal storms alongside architectural design.

Founded in 2001, WinDoor manufactures customizable aluminum windows and doors for residential and commercial applications. Its product offerings include impact-resistant and non-impact configurations, with options for expansive openings, architectural glass, custom finishes, and specialty hardware.

According to WinDoor, its aluminum product lines are developed with reference to AAMA and ASTM standards and applicable Miami-Dade and Texas Department of Insurance approval requirements. Certifications and performance ratings vary by model and configuration, making product-specific documentation an important part of the selection process.

Among the available WinDoor designs are pivot entry doors, large French doors, sliding glass doors, and fixed picture windows. These configurations address different architectural needs, from creating wider exterior openings to allowing additional natural light into existing living spaces.

HHI Windows & Doors has incorporated WinDoor products into residential projects in the Lowcountry, including a French door installation at a home in Colleton River. According to the company, the project involved replacing an existing opening with WinDoor French doors to introduce more natural light and improve access between the interior living space and the outdoors.

The Colleton River installation demonstrates how changes to window and door configurations can influence the functionality of an existing home. Larger glazed openings can bring exterior views into living areas, while door placement and operation can affect movement between interior rooms, patios, and outdoor gathering spaces.

The company's Bluffton showroom also serves builders, architects, and interior designers evaluating products for residential renovations and new construction. Access to physical displays provides an opportunity to review proportions, operating mechanisms, frame details, and other elements that may not be apparent in technical drawings or online specifications.

HHI Windows & Doors works with homeowners and building professionals throughout the planning process, including initial consultations, measurements, product selection, and installation. Its team evaluates existing openings and project requirements before recommending specific configurations.

The company has also received local recognition through The Island Packet's Lowcountry's Best awards, earning the Window Company Gold Award in 2025 and receiving recognition again in 2026.

Alongside the availability of WinDoor products at its showroom, HHI Windows & Doors is currently offering a limited-time 12% discount on qualifying WinDoor projects, including installation, for contracts signed by November 30, 2026. The installation may be scheduled after that date. The promo cannot be combined with other offers, and there is no minimum project size.

Homeowners interested in examining WinDoor products and other notable windows and doors brands can visit HHI Windows & Doors at its Bluffton showroom or contact the company to discuss available configurations and project requirements.
