Bray Development Launches Enhanced Digital Platform to Simplify Property Management

November 06, 2026

KINGSPORT, TN - November 06, 2026 -
Bray Development has launched an enhanced digital platform designed to bring key property management services into one online portal for property owners and tenants. The platform brings together tools for rent payments, maintenance requests, communication, virtual property tours, and digital lease agreements. It also includes property analytics and features intended to help users monitor energy consumption and incorporate smart home technology.

The launch adds a digital service channel to Bray Development?s property management operations in Bristol, Tennessee. Through the portal, property owners and tenants can access selected services and information in one place. The company describes the platform as a way to make common interactions more accessible and streamline communication between users and the property management team.

For tenants, the portal includes online rent payment options, maintenance request submissions, and communication tools. These functions are intended to make it easier to address routine needs and share property-related concerns. The maintenance request feature gives tenants a digital channel for reporting issues, while the communication tools provide a centralized way to contact the management team.

Property owners can use the platform?s analytics tools to review information related to occupancy trends, tenant preferences, and property performance. These data points are intended to support a clearer view of property activity and help owners assess management needs. The platform also brings virtual tours and digital lease agreements into the company?s service offering. Virtual tours provide a remote way to view properties, while digital lease agreements allow lease documents to be handled electronically.

The platform also includes tools related to energy consumption tracking and smart home technology integration. These features are intended to help property owners monitor energy use and consider connected technology as part of property operations. Their inclusion reflects an effort to make information about property use and building technology more accessible through the same digital environment.

Bray Development describes the platform as part of its ongoing effort to adapt its services to changing property management needs. The company has operated for more than a decade and serves clients in the Bristol, Tennessee, area. Its new digital portal expands the ways property owners and tenants can interact with the company and access property-related services.

Bringing payment, maintenance, communication, leasing, and property information tools together may reduce the need for users to navigate multiple channels when completing common tasks. Virtual tours and electronic lease features also provide options for handling parts of the rental process remotely.

For property owners evaluating property management companies in Bristol, TN, the platform adds another factor to consider when reviewing how a provider communicates, shares property information, and handles routine requests. Tenants may also benefit from having access to payment and maintenance functions through a centralized portal. The platform?s tools are designed to serve both groups while supporting day-to-day rental property management.

Bray Development will continue incorporating digital tools into its property management services as it responds to the needs of property owners and tenants. The launch represents an update to how the company delivers information and supports common property management interactions. Property owners seeking information about the platform or the company?s services can contact Bray Development directly.

As property management companies in Bristol, TN continue to evaluate digital service options, Bray Development?s platform provides a centralized approach to routine functions, including payments, maintenance communication, leasing, property analytics, and energy monitoring. The company?s announcement places these capabilities within one portal intended to make property-related tasks more accessible for owners and tenants.

###

For more information about Bray Development, contact the company here:Bray DevelopmentBray Development(423) 516-1198jarnette@braydevtn.comKingsport, TN

Bray Development

Website: https://www.braytn.com/

Email: jarnette@braydevtn.com

Phone: (423) 516-1198