Franklin Bell Family Lawyers, based in Wahroonga, New South Wales, has announced the launch of their recently revamped website. The firm specializes in family law on Sydney's North Shore. Jennifer Franklin, Principal Solicitor and Director at the firm, states, "We decided to streamline our website, to make it easier for clients or potential clients to find the information that they need. We feel that this new design will help interested parties to quickly and easily find what they are searching for."

The redesigned website, which can be accessed at <http://www.franklinbell.com.au>, provides detailed information about the firm and what they do, including their various family law specialties. They offer legal advice in areas of children's arrangements, property adjustment, domestic violence, child support, and more.

"We specialize in family law and everything pertaining to it," states Franklin. "Whether you are contemplating divorce, need child support guidance, or you want advice on how to properly divide marital assets, we can assist you."

Franklin states that the firm assists with "in principle agreements" as well as mediation, negotiations, and resolution. She says that those at a loss as to where they should begin any legal proceeding can contact the firm for guidance. They offer advice on avoiding court proceedings when it pertains to divorce and mediation, and can help clients to reach an agreement through negotiations as opposed to waiting on court dates.

The newly redesigned website offers insights into each specialty as well as detailed information regarding child support, divorce, and other family legal matters. Franklin states that the website is now also much more user friendly, with search features that are more convenient, and that it can be accessed on any mobile device for those who use their smartphones or tablets to perform their internet searches.

Those interested in learning more about the family law firm or who would like to get a look at the firm's newly redesigned website can visit them online or take a look at a video at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DzYBidBLkGA>.
