

In Stock Today Cabinets Maps Wholesale Kitchen Cabinets to NKBA 2027 Report

November 16, 2026

ALEXANDRIA, VA - November 16, 2026 -
In Stock Today Cabinets (IST Cabinets), an authorized distributor of Fabuwood and FIBO cabinetry, has outlined from its Alexandria, Virginia, showroom how its in-stock product lines align with the findings of the National Kitchen & Bath Association 2027 Kitchen Trends Report. In the report, released Oct. 14, 2026, surveyed designers ranked cabinet upgrades first among kitchen investments for expected return.

The NKBA report is based on an online survey of 830 NKBA community respondents across the United States and Canada, of whom 62 percent were designers. According to the NKBA, 54 percent of respondents rank cabinet upgrades as the highest-return kitchen investment, ahead of layout reconfiguration at 49 percent. The report further found that 85 percent agree cabinetry is increasingly designed to conceal appliances and functional elements, while 64 percent agree open shelving is giving way to enclosed storage. These figures reflect the views of design professionals rather than measured financial returns.

The report also documented color and material preferences. The NKBA found that 54 percent expect kitchen islands to carry a distinct color from the surrounding cabinetry, and that 34 percent anticipate natural, unfinished-look wood cabinets will be popular, with white oak the preferred wood for 49 percent. After neutrals at 96 percent, greens at 83 percent and blues at 75 percent remain the leading kitchen color choices.

IST Cabinets noted that several of its stocked options correspond to these findings. The IST Designer Collection includes 19 factory-finished colors such as Sage Green, Hunter Green, Pistachio Green, Denim Blue, Ocean Blue and Indigo, along with stained options Kona and Timber. The company stocks the Fabuwood Allure, Quest and Value Premium lines, supplied either assembled or ready-to-assemble, giving contractors choices that match the report?s island-color, color and wood trends.

Timing has also become a planning factor for 2027 projects. Proclamation 10976 set a 25 percent Section 232 duty on covered imported kitchen cabinets, vanities and parts effective Oct. 14, 2025, and Proclamation 11000, published in the Federal Register on Jan. 9, 2026, keeps that rate through Dec. 31, 2026, and schedules an increase to 50 percent on Jan. 1, 2027. The rate on a given product depends on its tariff classification and country of origin, and the schedule remains subject to further federal action. For households and contractors scheduling 2027 kitchens, the company said, availability may become part of the decision.

IST Cabinets states that in-stock Fabuwood cabinets can be available in five to seven business days through its ready-ship program, depending on inventory, door style and order size, with same-day pickup offered on stocked items at its showroom.

?Designers surveyed by the NKBA rank cabinets ahead of almost any other kitchen change for return, and that message lands differently when import costs are scheduled to shift in January,? said Emin Halac, president of In Stock Today Cabinets. ?Buyers looking at wholesale kitchen cabinets this season are weighing both design direction and delivery timing.?

?The report points toward concealed storage, distinct island colors and natural wood tones,? Halac added. ?The in-stock collection was built to give contractors and homeowners those options without the long lead times that have defined cabinet ordering.?

In Stock Today Cabinets is serving contractors, dealers, builders. The company supplies wholesale cabinets through ready-to-assemble and assembled options, with kitchen cabinet trends reflected across its Allure, Quest and Value Premium lines. It operates showrooms in Alexandria and Fairfax, Virginia, Columbia, Maryland, Bear, Delaware, and Houston, Texas. Fabuwood cabinets carry the manufacturer?s limited lifetime warranty, which applies to the original purchaser under Fabuwood?s terms.
