June 30, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Pelham, NH - Newly built website by R&E Steam Cleaning Equipment showcases a wide range of pressure washers and parts on offer from the Company.

R&E Steam Cleaning Equipment recently announced the launch of their brand new website. The site provides customers and visitors with visuals and information on its comprehensive line of Largo Cleaning Systems, replacement parts and accessories. In addition, the website provides information on the company's steam cleaner and pressure washer repair services.

Featuring a light, uncluttered layout, the new website is designed to allow visitors easy navigation and access to relevant information. The home page is equipped with slider images showcasing a number of its most popular products and parts. It also lists out several pressure washers, displaying their model numbers and prices. Clicking on each product allows website visitors to get detailed information on each part, including product specifications, additional information, and the option to make a purchase. There are also social buttons, which allow viewers to share products on their social media pages.

In addition to the home page, the website also features an About Us page, which provides information on the company's background; a Services page, which describes R&E Steam Cleaning Equipment's Power Washer Repair Services; and a Contact Us page that lists out the company's contact details and displays a map to help potential customers find their physical location.

R&E Steam Cleaning is a family-owned and operated business located in Pelham, NH. With the owners boasting over 25 years of experience, the company promise customers pressure washing equipment of the highest quality. They cater to both commercial and residential customers, with a large inventory of Industrial Largo Cleaning Systems and a well-stocked parts and accessories department. Shoppers can visit their physical locations to make purchases but can also have items delivered. The launch of the website promotes online shopping, making it even easier for shoppers to purchase equipment.

The launch of R&E Steam Cleaning's new website comes as the company steps up its drive to make its products and services more accessible to customers living in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, Vernont, and other areas in New England. Visitors also have the option to create company accounts via the website, using their email addresses, to get access to additional benefits. The website can be accessed by visiting Resteam.com.
