August 03, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Minneapolis, Minnesota based Wyldlife Pets has announced the release of their latest line of healthy natural dog chews, which is the beef trachea dog treat. "This is just the latest in our line of healthy natural dog chews," states Dan Fernandez with Wyldlife Pets. "We're pleased to always offer our customers and their pets the highest quality products."

The beef trachea dog treats are now available on the Amazon marketplace. Dan Fernandez states that they are high in protein and work like dental floss for dogs, promoting good oral health. They can also be used for occupational purposes, to help dogs that suffer from anxiety, as chewing has been shown to calm pets. The company states that they are specifically designed with healthy ingredients that have been proven to assist with dental issues and general health issues in dogs, and that they are safer than many other treats on the market today.

"Our chews are 100 percent digestible," says Dan Fernandez. "They do not pose a choking hazard as many rawhide bones and other chew type products. They are completely pure, with no fillers, which makes them really healthy."

Wyldlife Pets originally launched their Bully Sticks on Amazon, which have gained in popularity since their initial release, Fernandez says, because they are healthier alternatives to traditional chews. The company maintains that all of their products are completely natural and do not contain chemicals or other harmful ingredients that could cause illness or injury to pets.

Dan Fernandez says that this newest product in their healthy dog chew lineup works well as oral chews, removing plaque and tartar buildup that can cause bad breath and general dental health issues in pets. He states that the natural ingredients provide the chews with a much more pleasant flavor for dogs as well, so they are much more likely to chew them as opposed to filled or chemical based dog treats.

More about the new beef trachea chews, or any of the natural dog chews and treats offered by Wyldlife Pets, can be seen on their official Amazon seller's page, or on their website.
