July 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Three Massey, Stotser & Nichols, P.C. attorneys have been recognized as 'Top Lawyers' by Birmingham, AL publication B-Metro. The three honored attorneys are Anne Lamkin Durward, Stephanie Lanier Weems, and Kristin Sullivan. To be classed as a 'Top Lawyer', they had to show a proven history of guiding clients to successful outcomes. More details on the services offered by the law firm, which is also based in Birmingham, are available at www.msnattorneys.com.

Partner Randy Nichols says: "We see it as a great honor to have three of our lawyers recognized for their excellent services. While we are a team of lawyers, we act as one. This means that the recognition Anne, Stephanie, and Kristin have received reflects on all of us, including our clients."

People are encouraged to learn more about Massey, Stotser, & Nichols, PC through its website. The site clearly highlights the various legal services that the firm provides, which are extensive. They focus on business law, individual and family law, and accident and injury law. They also provide an online case evaluation to ensure prospective clients receive the best possible help.

B-Metro, meanwhile, is the magazine of Metro Birmingham Living. The magazine is very well-read by community members, who frequently use it to make decisions in terms of where to shop and where to find the best possible services in the area. For them to give three specific lawyers the 'Top Lawyer' award is a true testament to the excellent service the firm provides.

Many clients can attest to the quality of the services that the firm provides. "Anne is one of the best," says April P. on the firm's Facebook page. This is further underpinned by others who have left reviews on other specific lawyers of the firm. In fact, they have received consistent five star reviews, which is one of the reasons why B-Metro noticed the firm and its lawyers.
