May 20, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Sublime Celebrity TV, a Nevada-based company, has announced the availability of the Sublime Instant Lift product. The company describes it as the latest in cosmeceutical applications and goes so far as to suggest that it may go above simple corrections in the future and assist in prevention as well. The product was developed by Omni Research and Supply Inc. and can be ordered through the company website at sublimecelebrity.com.

This particular product is considered as an anti-aging cream, and it is meant to reverse aging signs by as much as ten years, according to the company. Over time, the use of the new nanotechnology within the product causes a visible result of line and aging reduction, which come in the form of smoothed wrinkles and skin lifts. Currently, the said product is being marketed for use in the facelift department of cosmetics and skin care, but company representatives have suggested that it is also for use on neck lines and creases. They have said the following regarding the manufacture and use of the product:

"As the sole manufacturer of Sublime Instant Lift, we believe we have a product that will be more popular than Botox or other anti-aging treatments available today. Already taking the world by storm, particularly Europe, Sublime Instant Lift is a topical solution to be applied topically for the temporary lifting and tightening of the facial skin", says Xavier Ramirez of Sublime Celebrity TV.

The anti-aging formula is reported to also show results in the lightening and tightening of stretch marks, which opens an entirely new marketing potential for the product in terms of use by women who have lost or gained weight, or who are or have been pregnant. The visible results can be witnessed in as few as three to five minutes after application, and the team at Sublime Celebrity TV suggests that a moisturizer should not be used with the cream, or it may dilute the product and reduce its impact.

The company website promotes the facelift cream with videos, which show real results of those who have used the product. It also explains that there are no injections and no prescription required to receive results from the Sublime Instant Lift cream.

The cream can be applied for instant results, and is manufactured using FDA approved ingredients. It is offered by the company along with a 100% customer satisfaction guarantee, which supplies money back with no questions asked if those who use the cream are not happy with the product or the outcome.

Sublime Celebrity TV encourages those interested in trying the product to visit its website for testimonials from current users, and to request more information or receive contact data to call and speak with a company representative. Those who get in contact may ask about the product for usage or to become a reseller of the anti-aging cream.
