July 26, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Meditative Wisdom, a company based in Winter Springs, FL, has recently launched a new website that site focuses on Meditation Mala Beads, including vital information on their many uses. Primarily designed using wood or gemstones, the beads come in necklace or bracelet form, and are meant to offer the wearer various energetic properties and benefits.

Mala Beads date back as far as 10,000 BC, and are used in a multitude of religious and spiritual practices including Hinduism and Buddhism. Meditative Wisdom offers a number of ways to wear and use the beads, and describes their energies as follows, "Your mala has its own energy and presence which can lend to your meditative practice just by picking it up or wearing it. The energies of the wood or gemstones in the mala have their own energetic properties and can have a supportive nature of their own. If you've had your mala blessed or reiki activated that can add another layer of support to the energies of the mala."

The new Meditative Wisdom website provides consumers with the opportunity to purchase a Mala Necklace and other Mala wear from the comfort of the home. Shoppers can create an account, login, and fill their carts with bracelets, necklaces, and decorative storage bags. It is pointed out that the bracelets are affordable and can be used as gifts by those who are on a budget. Obviously, more beads and better quality of materials may increase the price of the item, which is why prices can vary so much.

The website offers instructions on care, conditioning, and mantra practices. It also provides a user friendly search feature, frequently asked questions page, contact and about page, as well as pages for shipping and returns. Customers of Meditative Wisdom are invited to enter their email addresses through the website to receive a free newsletter which includes special offers and updates. Shoppers can also share favorites, review products, or contact the company through the available social media links on the main site.

For more information on Meditative Wisdom, the new website, or the Mala Beads, an easy to use contact feature is available on the new website.
