Foxbrim, an Orlando, FL based skin and hair care company, has just launched the latest product in their hair conditioning lineup. The new leave-in conditioner hair detangler spray is designed to keep hair feeling light and clean, rather than weighing it down the way that some oil based products do. Foxbrim has said the following regarding the latest addition to their store: "Our leave-in detangler spray is perfect for all hair types - even the finest of hair won't feel weighed down. This light yet moisturizing leave-in conditioner spray combines soothing Organic Aloe and Neem, nourishing Pro-Vitamin B5, smoothing Castor Oil, and strengthening Hydrolyzed Wheat Protein. Your hair will be tangle-free and incredibly soft and smooth, with a shiny bounce."

Foxbrim is recognized throughout the hair care and skin care industry, as a company which specializes in safe and natural products. The CEO, Troy Johnston, started the company to provide natural skin and hair care solutions without causing any allergies or sensitivities due to additives and chemicals. He explains: "Having suffered with severe acne throughout my life I know all too well the struggle with different products, questionable ingredients, and skin problems (not solutions). At Foxbrim, we proudly source and offer the absolute best ingredients we can find."

The new conditioner offers the same natural ingredients as many of the other Foxbrim products. It combines aloe leaf juice, castor oil, vitamin E, organic neem seed oil, rosemary leaf extract, meadowfoam seed oil, organic white willow bark, and more to create the detangling solution.

Directions for the latest product are simple, urging customers to shake gently, spray onto clean, damp hair, and comb through. Unlike other conditioners, this leave in conditioner detangler spray doesn't need to be rinsed after use. By using a small amount of the spray and combing it thoroughly through the damp hair, the oil disperses and absorbs rather than sitting on top in a greasy layer.

Those interested in learning more about Foxbrim, their new hair conditioner, or other natural products in the company store, are invited to visit the official Foxbrim website. Contact info, FAQ's, and the entire product line are available from this convenient online shop.
