

New Travel Gateway Solution for Travelers Going to the Toronto Caribbean Carnival

July 29, 2016

July 29, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Every year the Toronto Caribbean Carnival takes over the city this Civic Holiday weekend. It is considered one of the largest street events in North America, expecting over 1.3 million people in attendance each year.

Travelers attending the festival which features live Caribbean music ? mainly soca calypso and steelpan ? just purchasing a plane ticket and booking a comfortable hotel may seem like the easy part of their travel plans. This Caribbean festival in Toronto has many different events, parties, parades and shows all happening at different times and locations, thus making it very challenging for the Toronto travelers to overcome the daunting task of accessing and compiling the necessary travel itinerary details before arriving to their destination.

One resource travelers can take advantage of is to use the Travel Itinerary Directory or TID for short created by Travelpapers.com. ?It is supposed to help both local people and travelers to be better organized and prepared in advance of their trip with their itinerary information which leaves them with more time to enjoy their stay here at the Toronto Caribbean Carnival. For the traveler it can be frustrating for them to waste time hopping from website to website, asking strangers for directions or flipping through the local yellow pages to find event locations. TID is simple to use and it can provide the traveler a customized travel itinerary for free during their stay. Users of TID also get to see their blog posts on our Toronto city page where other travelers can share and engage, says Donald Bailey CEO/President of Travelpapers.com.

TID is one alternative compared to other search engines or travel gateways that can be utilized to generate travel itinerary content for business and/or leisure according to an individual's travel requirements. All that a traveler needs to do is to create a TP-Profile and then select, view and print off all the content they requested as they travel to the Toronto Carnival.
