Mike Marko with Internet Marketing Consultant Services in Cincinnati, Ohio, recently released a new review of Nerium. After extensively reviewing the program, Marko states that Nerium is a good company to join for those who are searching for a business opportunity.

In his Nerium review, Marko states, "To begin with, Nerium is one of the largest network marketing companies around. It has been stable for years, and they're a lot of people making a lot of money within the company."

He says that those who have used the online marketing consulting services provided by Internet Marketing Consulting Services have been overwhelmingly positive about the results. He will setup a one-on-one strategy meeting where he will go over the client's business and come up with a marketing strategy, for each member who joins.

"I don't give positive reviews unless I see positive results," Marko says. "If I've given it a thumbs up then it's a good system, period."

Marko also stated that he recently heard from a distributor that Nerium International is working to expand into China. He states that once the Chinese government agrees that Nerium has met all its requirements, it will open up a large market to the Nerium product and business opportunity. He says that this will provide a larger platform for those joining the business.

Marko's review states that Nerium is a steady business that creates good products, and that those choosing to market the product should have no issue with finding consumers interested in it. He says that the traditional way of selling is to speak with friends and family, and that this method will work nicely with the product that Nerium provides. He does state that although it is a good business, those joining will need to get their offer in front of people who are seriously interested in what they are marketing in order for it to be successful. For this, he recommends taking the business online, which he says will expand the audience to a more global level.
