August 19, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Palmate Gardening in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, has recently released a solar fairy garden product. The company states that the product has gained mass popularity since its release, due to its solar capabilities.

Pete Bowes, Head of Product Development for Palmate Gardening says, "Home owners understand the duality of aesthetics and practicality when it comes to garden products. Solar items are beautiful to look at and also keep your space lit up."

Solar lighting, in general, has grown in popularity over the years, and solar products have come a long way since the concept was first introduced. Garden enthusiasts will now find an array of decorative options for outdoor living spaces from birds and insects to flowers, candles, and fairies, all in the form of solar lighting.

Homeowners most often choose solar lighting because it is the least expensive way to add a decorative aspect to their gardens. Solar decorative items are affordable for most homeowners and the fact that they use the power of the sun as energy source means they don't add to homeowners' power costs. Depending on the size of the item, some may use them for safety, while smaller items are used to highlight certain garden areas.

Solar garden lights in many forms have been included in many lists that indicate the best gadgets to purchase to ultimately save money. Bowes says that this is not at all surprising, and that many homeowners have gotten on the solar bandwagon in their garden areas. He says that there are a number of these solar powered items available online, which makes it even more convenient for gardeners to purchase them.

Palmate Gardening offers a number of gardening decorations, one of which is their newly released solar powered garden fairy. The company has revealed that the fairy statue has been very popular since its initial release, and that they expect that popularity to grow even more in the coming months. Bowes says that fairy gardening in general has grown in popularity over the years, and this prompted the company to release their solar powered fairy product.

The garden fairy offered by the company is available on the Amazon marketplace, and can be found at <https://www.amazon.com/Outdoor-Solar-Fairy-Garden-Statue/dp/B01DJRDGOW>.
