August 15, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

In a bid to expand its operations and serve its clientele better, Status Transportation has now moved into new offices. These new modern and well-equipped facilities are part of the company's bigger vision to be able to access a much wider market and be able to provide its owner operators with services that are second to none.

"We have always wanted to be able to operate from a central point. A central point where we can have our offices have adequate storage space and facilities for our customers' goods and sufficient parking spaces for our drivers' trucks. We always knew this would help us to reduce our operations costs significantly and thus allow us to have more resources freed up to meet the needs of our drivers and customers. Moving into this new facility is a big step in the right direction for Status Corporation as a company," Erik was quoted as saying.

According to latest Status Transportation reviews, Status Corporation is one of the big names in the trucking industry today. It has managed to create a good niche for itself in the provision of a platform for owner operators to run profitable businesses without having to worry about overhead costs. The company's main aim is to get into productive partnership with owner operators that create a win-win situation for both the drivers and the company.

The company operates on a very simple model where a driver joins the company with his or her truck. The company will then use the truck for the delivery of goods to various places. The owner will, however, be the one driving the truck and they will not be treated as an employee but as a partner. This then means that they will get their share from the money being made from the trips that are made.

"The move to the new offices does not only mark a new dawn for the company, but it also works well to centralise its operations. This then means that the company's operations will be better controlled, and coordination will be much easier. This will eventually translate to increased efficiency which will translate into increased revenues," concluded Operation Manager of Status Transportation.
