Houston Custom Pool Contractors has recently enlisted the services of Odessa, TX based company Roy Wingate Business Consultants. They charged the consultant with building their website and holding responsibility for their overall online branding and marketing campaign. As part of this work, a new informative article entitled '6 Mistakes People Make when Building a Pool in Houston', which is the third page of the pool contractor's website, has been published. The article can be accessed at <https://houstoncustompoolcontractors.com/6-mistakes-people-make-when-building-a-pool-in-houston>.

Roy Wingate, founder and owner of the consultancy business, says: "I really enjoy working with Houston Custom Pool Contractors. One of the things that make them stand out for me is the fact that they aren't just looking for new customers. Rather, they want to make sure that people are well informed and armed with the knowledge they need to make the right decision when it comes to their outdoor construction. The latest article was a particularly big eye opener."

In the article, people are presented with the six most common pool building mistakes. These are neglecting safety, not asking enough questions, signing with the wrong contractor, choosing economy over quality, collecting too much information, and focusing on aesthetics over function. The vast majority of people who have ever so much as considered having a pool built are likely to be able to identify with these issues.

Wingate himself, in fact, is no stranger to these mistakes. "When I got to work with Houston Custom Pool Contractors and they talked to me about the six biggest mistakes, I realized that I had made at least four of those six. It is no surprise, therefore, that my personal pool building experience isn't as good as it could have been. Unfortunately, I no longer have the opportunity to go to Houston Custom Pool Contractors now, since my pool has already been constructed, but I would personally recommend them to anyone."

Most commonly, homes are constructed together with a pool, meaning few people ever have a requirement for these types of contractors. As a result, those that do need help often don't know what to look for. Houston Custom Pool Contractors wants to make sure people learn about that.
