With the transition from summer to autumn, it is important for people to prepare their skin. SpaVerde, a business in Cheyenne, Wyoming, is proud to announce that their body brush is now a best selling item on Amazon. The body brush is handcrafted, 100% natural, and made of boar bristles. Using body brushes of this kind has been shown to have a number of important health benefits.

Michael Verde, owner and founder of SpaVerde, says: "Dry brushing is a little known technique to significantly improve the overall health of the skin. To do it properly, however, it is important to use a very good quality dry brush, which is one that is strong enough to clear the skin, but not so harsh that it damages it. Our handcrafted, all natural body brush is just right for those needs."

Some of the benefits of using the dry brushing body brush include the capability to exfoliate, clean pores, improve circulation of blood and lymph, clear skin from dead cells, make the skin more glowing and bright, and leave it more resilient to harsh weather. Michael Verde himself has tried dry brushing daily for one month. In so doing, he noticed all of the described benefits on his own skin.

SpaVerde aims to supply its customers with skin care products that are all natural and cruelty-free. They have found inspiration in ancient cultures, such as the Native Americans, Chinese, Japanese, Russians, Indians, Scandinavians, and Turks, who all exfoliated using dry brushing techniques, leaving their skin glowing, radiant, and healthy. Their brushes are made from 100% natural boar hair and the handles are made from natural bamboo and cherry wood. The company creates a number of other products as well, all of which follow the same philosophy of only using natural, cruelty-free components.

The SpaVerde body brush has received many positive reviews. "Not only is my skin brighter and softer (especially my face), but the cellulite on the back of my legs (which, unfortunately, was substantial) is slowly fading away," says Amanda on the company's website. Customers also hail the fantastic service they have received from SpaVerde.
