Foxbrim, a company based in Orlando, Florida, that provides a number of skin care products made from natural ingredients, has revealed that they have received record reviews for their face moisturizer. The company's Ocean Mineral Lotion face moisturizer featuring natural and organic ingredients has earned a top spot on Amazon in the face moisturizer category, as the product had thousands of positive reviews.

Luann Koerper with Foxbrim states, "We're so pleased that our customers are finding our products to be satisfactory. We've received so many great comments since we launched our ocean mineral lotion."

Foxbrim states that their ocean mineral lotion combines the best in healing moisturizers including aloe vera, jojoba oil, and shea butter with the regenerative properties of bioavailable ocean minerals. Koerper explains that the lotion boosts collagen production while filling in existing wrinkles.

Foxbrim's Ocean Mineral Lotion Face Moisturizer is available on the Amazon marketplace, where the numerous positive reviews can also be found. Koerper says that the ingredients are the main reason that customers like the lotion.

"It's just a light and fresh lotion that creates balanced and nourished skin," Koerper says. "The eco-friendly marine minerals help to restore firmness and it doesn't contain any harsh synthetics or silicones or parabens, so it's great for any skin type."

The mixture of plant and ocean based minerals in the lotion include aloe vera, hyaluronic acid, and an ocean mineral complex with minerals that have been found to help restore firmness and elasticity. The company states that many customers claim to like the organic blue green algae which is a micro algae that is praised for its high nutritional values and healing properties because of the complete proteins and amino acids.

Foxbrim states that all of their products include only natural ingredients that are easy on the skin and do not contain anything that could cause irritation or allergies. Koerper says that this is another reason that customers have taken to Amazon to offer their outstanding reviews.

Those interested in learning more about any of the products that the company provides or in reading through the thousands of positive reviews can do so in Foxbrim's Amazon.com storefront.
