Despite TSA rules having been in place for a significant period of time now, many people still find that they have to leave some of their best products in the bin at the airport security due to carrying prohibited amounts. Zombie Disaster Kits, a business in Vancouver, WA, has developed a toiletry bag to help travelers avoid such a situation. The bag, which is available on Amazon.com, is proving to be very popular.

Jillian Gregg, founder of Zombie Disaster Kits, says: "We at Zombie Disaster Kits are all travelers at heart. We want to see the world in a comfortable and easy way. While we appreciate the importance of the various TSA rules, we have ourselves been in situations where we had to leave about half our hand luggage behind. This is why we decided to develop the toiletry bag for men and women, which ensures that you never have to get rid of your products again."

The toiletry bag comes with food grade silicone bottles that meet the TSA Liquids Rule. It also comes with two Velcro in/out bags, which can hold liquids and gels. The entire bag can easily go through security screening and meet all of the requirements.

The bag has been designed to be able to hold all the toiletries people use at home, but stored in compartments that pack flat and are completely leak resistant. The bag, which has a black, canvas finish, comes with a hanger. It also has an all round zipper so that it can be opened in full while going through security checks. It also comes with a hanger, which has been shown to be very useful for those who travel by car, or who want to keep their bathrooms in their travel destinations neat and tidy. ZombieDisasterKits has done all it can to ensure that this bag meets any requirements anyone could have.

The main thoughts behind developing the bag, however, had been based on the TSA Liquids Rule. This rule continues to surprise people, with frequent reports of people struggling with things such as baby formula and contact fluid. Thanks to the Zombie Disaster Kits toiletry bag, this no longer needs to be a concern for travelers.
