Vancouver, Washington based company, Fortune Compass, has released a new version of their Feng Shui app. The company's New Feng Shui Life Compass app version 1.5 has been completely updated for iOS10 and year 2016 Feng Shui. One of the first Feng Shui apps for the iPhone, Life Compass has been for sale since 2009 in the Apple iTunes app store.

Steve Vollum with Fortune Compass says, "We want everyone to have the opportunity to download from iTunes, and we wanted to alert them that the newest version of the app, which is now compatible with the newest versions of the iPhone is now available."

Vollum says that the app is used as personal Feng Shui consultant. The app uses 4,000 year old secrets to provide immediate access to a user's fortune points. He explains that the tool can change people's lives by aligning them or their home with the best energy for friendships love, wellness, wealth, and personal growth, among other aspects. The newest version he says is as easy to use and navigate as the previous versions, and accurate enough for enthusiasts and professionals in Feng Shui. The app includes a personal Kua number generation, Bagua and Focus Compass.

"We've also included four optional in-app purchases that will activate the eight mansions, eight directions, and flying star calculations that display your detailed energy tips and cures," Vollum says.

He states that the eight directions show a 360 degree view of all fields and types of energy surrounding the user, so that users can change their environment to support their individual intentions and avoid hindrances. The eight directions also provides an augmented reality view of energies on video.

The eight mansions offers a calculation of the primary types of Qi in every sector of a house, which is designed to help users visualize each room's energy. Flying star assists users in finding the best house by displaying energy patterns of buildings in high resolution.

The newly updated app is available now for download in the Apple iTunes store. More about the app and the company can be seen on their official Facebook page or their website.
