Ninja Marketing, an online marketing company based in San Diego, California, is proud to announce that they have launched a San Diego photo booth rental company. Photo booth rental is becoming increasingly popular for a variety of events. Ninja Marketing hopes that, through their web design and SEO services, this company will be a great success.

"Marketing photo booth rental San Diego services is probably the most fun thing we have ever had to do", says John R. from Ninja Marketing. "There is something intricately fun about photo booths for different events, after all. We hope that, by working together with us, this new company will gain a great amount of success."

The company markets itself as the "originators" of the digital photo booth. They have already experienced a great amount of success, with one of their returning clients being Playboy. To make a booking, people simply have to telephone the company using the number provided in their video, which can be viewed here:

for the originators of the digital photo booth. "However, they are now also being used at various business events and more. Naturally, the fact that we count Playboy as one of our clients has to be our greatest achievement, and we hope to have many more such clients in our portfolio soon."

Once upon a time, photo booths were used for the sole purpose of creating passport photographs. However, most people would turn to professional photographers instead, as the regulations on passport photographs are very stringent. At that point, the booths started to be used for making fun pictures, such as a strip of four pictures with funny faces, or individual A4 sized photographs with various backgrounds or themes.

Before long, the photo booths moved outside of the malls and other shopping areas and started to get used at parties, weddings and other social events. Today, they have moved on from being a simple booth in which people can sit to have their pictures taken, to professional digital machines with props and various other fun tools. The new San Diego photo booth rental company hopes to help party hosts in creating a memorable impression of their events. Photographs can either be taken home by guests, or they can be left behind to be added to a party or event photo album at a later stage.

Ninja Marketing, meanwhile, has worked together with various other San Diego companies and has gained a reputation for delivering beautiful websites that consistently rank high on the search results in Google and other engines. By working with Ninja Marketing, the photo booth rental San Diego company hopes to gain a greater audience. While they will continue to work with Playboy, they hope that people understand that this is a testament to their quality but that it doesn't mean they are exclusive only to those with incredibly high budgets.
