

Fort Myers Pest Control Service Extended Into All Areas Of Southwest Florida

September 28, 2016

September 28, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

DNS Pest Control, based in Fort Myers, Florida, has announced an expansion of their services into all areas of Southwest Florida. The company has now expanded their service areas to include Cape Coral, Lehigh Acres, and Estero, in addition to their home area of Fort Myers.

Paul Lear with DNS Pest Control says, "We're proud to be able to provide our quality pest control services to the different areas of Southwest Florida."

Lear explains that all services offered in Fort Myers will now be offered to these new service areas, including ant, termite, roach, and rodent control. He says that those interested in local pest control can visit the company on their website to get a complete overview of the types of pest control services that they offer.

DNS Pest Control has been providing services in the Fort Myers region for a number of years. The company has a staff of highly trained and qualified technicians to handle various rodent and pest issues. Lear says that whether consumers are battling ants that are typically seen in the spring and fall, or have a more serious infestation such as rats that can chew through wiring and cause massive damage in the home, the company offers services that are designed to eliminate these pest problems.

In addition to their normal control services, Lear says that home or business owners who may have a pest problem not listed on their website can contact them. He states that they cover a wide range of pests not commonly mentioned in their service areas.

The company states that they provide comprehensive pest control, including follow up visits to ensure that pests are eradicated. Lear says that this complete coverage will also now extend to their new service areas, and that home and business owners in those areas can count on the same fast response and quality customer service that Fort Myers customers have enjoyed for years.

Lear states that anyone interested in learning more about the specific pest control services they offer, or those who would like more information on pests they may be dealing with may want to "take a moment to visit our website."
