Wonderful Wags Online Store Is Now Open

September 20, 2016

September 20, 2016 -
Wonderful Wags, based in Farmington, Utah, has announced that their new online store is now open for business. The company announced that their line of all natural dog treats and accessories are now available on their website. A spokesperson for the company states that all of their products can now be ordered directly through their website and offers the convenience of PayPal.

"We're so excited to have it up and running," says Renee Coulter of Wonderful Wags. "Our new Wonderful Wags store holds all of our great products and we'll be adding new inventory regularly."

Coulter says that the company's products were originally only available through the Amazon marketplace and while they plan to continue to offer products through Amazon, customers can now get them directly from the site. The company's dog treats have been a hit on the Amazon marketplace. Their dog treats, Beef Stix, Turkey Stix, and Salmon Snax, were released some time ago on the marketplace and have been gaining rave reviews. Coulter says that the addition of an online store is something the company feels will allow them to provide even better customer service than before - to go along with their line of quality products.

"We just feel that customers will appreciate being able to order directly from us," Coulter says. "It's always been our goal to have a website with an online store and now we feel that our customers are truly getting the best that we can offer them. We like being able to oversee all aspects of our customers' experience and hope to improve their satisfaction by not having a "middle man"."

Coulter states that along with the online store, the site also offers tips and articles for dog owners that offer insights into some commonly asked questions and issues. Product information about all of their natural dog treats is also available on the site and now the store adds to what the company calls a "complete customer experience."

Those interested can now begin ordering dog treats and other products directly from the Wonderful Wags website. Customers who wish to connect with the company on a more personal platform or who would like to interact with other customers and learn about any additional upcoming promotions or changes can like the company on their official Facebook page to receive updates regularly.
