Wonderful Wags Dog Treats Line Of Premium Organic Made In The USA Dog Treats

September 22, 2016

September 22, 2016 -
Wonderful Wags, a premium, organic dog treats company based in Farmington, Utah, has announced the launch of a new line of organic dog treats. The company produces dog treats that are 100 percent sourced and made in the USA. Renee Coulter, spokesperson for the company states, "There's a new focus on healthy dog treats and nutrition. With news of tainted pet treats coming from China, we offer organic treats that are made right here in the United States."

In the new product lineup, the company has introduced Beef Stix that contain American Beef, raised here in the USA. Coulter states that dogs love the taste of these crunchy treats. Turkey Stix, made from organic, real turkey and Salmon Snax made from 100% Alaskan salmon are also offered. A full list of the new products and their ingredients can be seen on the company's website. Shoppers can even order products directly from their online store. All of the products are also available on amazon, for those loyal shoppers.

"Our treats are healthy, organic, safe, and made of only the best ingredients, including the highest qualities of turkey, beef and fish," Coulter says. "Be the person your dog thinks you are and feed them only the best treats available." The company believes that the organic treats are much safer for pets because they do not contain many of the chemicals and filler ingredients that some store bought treats contain, which can include things like corn syrup, MSG, and artificial preservatives - all of which have proven to be unhealthy for dogs and cats.

Wonderful Wags is a locally founded, grassroots effort and states that they are committed to making a positive impact on domestic animals. They provide organic treats, along with information for pet owners regarding what to feed and what not to feed their pets. Coulter states that they regularly publish informative articles on their site to go along with their new line of healthy treat products in an effort to provide an overall wellness resource for pet owners.

In addition to their online presence, the company actively supports adoption and rescue organizations, as well as spay and neuter efforts. Pet owners who are interested in learning more can visit the company on their official website, or like their company page on Facebook.
