October 07, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Costa Rica School of Massage Therapy, based in Samara, Nicoya, Costa Rica, is the number one study abroad for Massage Therapy in the world. They are placing a spotlight on one of their instructors, Vickie Torrey. Torrey was at the heart of the initiative that enabled massage students to provide massages to the community, as described on <https://crsmt.com/3877-2/>.

Courtney Krenz from the Costa Rica School of Massage Therapy says: "Our school has been turning out successful graduates for many years now, and we really want to place a spotlight on Vickie Torrey, one of our most popular instructors."

Vickie Torrey, MBA, MHA, LMBT is a licensed massage and bodywork therapist with 26 years experience in therapeutic massage and over 26 years experience as a Counselor/Certified Social Worker. Ms. Torrey has previously served as Director of Education for the North Carolina Chapter of the American Massage Therapy Association (AMTA), taught massage and movement for Omega Institute of Holistic Studies in Rhinebeck, New York, and wrote for the Charlotte Post a monthly newspaper column entitled "Hands On Health," that focused on massage, bodywork and mind-body psychology. She teaches classes in Hot Stone, Intuitive, and Oncology Massage in Brazil, Costa Rica, and the US. Vickie is currently a faculty member at Costa Rica School of Massage Therapy in Samara Beach, Costa Rica where she teaches Ethics and Communications and Oncology Massage.

The school, and particularly its instructors, have been highly positively reviewed by many massage students. "Excellent program," says Samantha G.B. on facebook.com/costaricaschoolofmassagetherapy. "Professional atmosphere in a retreat like location. The staff is helpful, teachers are amazing, curriculum is designed to help the students be the best they can be and become top notch therapists."

People are encouraged to visit the Costa Rica School of Massage Therapy's website on <https://crsmt.com> for further information about their courses, the work that they do, and student experiences.
