Camping Equipment USA, an outdoor adventure equipment store that is based in Columbus, Ohio, has announced the release of a new line of products for their outdoor loving customers. The store recently launched a number of backpacking cooking equipment that are designed to make life a bit more convenient in the outdoors.

Michael Sullivan, a spokesperson for the company says, "We understand that when you're backpacking you want to be able to cook decent meals. At the same time, you want equipment that aren't going to weigh you down. We've added a great backpacking gear list that includes lightweight and easy to carry equipment so you can enjoy your meals and not overburden yourself at the same time."

Sullivan says that visitors to the company's site will also find various backpacking equipment lists to help outdoorsmen ensure that they have everything they need to enjoy their time in the outdoors. From stoves and backpacks to water and egg carriers, he states that they have everything in stock that one would need to enjoy days of being unplugged from the rest of the world.

"People need to unplug from time to time in order to balance things out," Sullivan states. "We provide all of the equipment you need to get away from it all, regroup, and give yourself the chance to refocus."

In addition to their new products, the company also provides information to backpackers including places to visit and which equipment could be best for specific adventures. A backpacking checklist is provided that ensures travelers have just what they need when camping, and the company offers various backpacking food ideas including recipes that can be cooked on camping stoves. More about their articles and information can be seen at <http://campingequipmentusa.com/>.

Camping Equipment USA provides a range of tents and other accessories as well as smaller items like flashlights and camping knives, to include everything campers will need when they hit the trails. More on the company, as well as a look at all the various backpacking products they offer, can be seen on their official
