

DigitalRez Announces Rez Expert Updates And Website Redesign

September 30, 2016

September 30, 2016 -

DigitalRez, a business with offices in Barbados, Canada and Australia, is proud to announce that their RezExpert software and website have been updated. The website now features a streamlined and clean design, which makes it easier for clients and potential clients alike to find what they are looking for. The new website can be accessed through <https://rezexpert.com/>.

Kevin Hall from DigitalRez says: "We are committed to offering our clients the best possible product. Offering reservation software for a wealth of different industries and updating it regularly, we felt that the website was becoming slightly cluttered with all the information that was available. Hence, we have been working hard over the past few months to clean everything up, and we're loving the new results. Do let us know how you feel about it."

Besides the website updates, RezExpert Software has also been updated. It now includes a number of new features. These RezExpert updates include the fact that the type revenue and occupancy range has been extended to one year. This means that, with the software, clients are now able to take reservations up to one year in advance. Additionally, RezExpert now uses push notifications to make it easier for clients to remain up to date with any new information. The billing policies have also been updated to make them easier to manage, waiting lists have been changed and enhanced, and the system now allows for security deposits.

A range of other features are currently being developed and will soon be added. Kevin Hall explains: "We will soon be adding a training academy, various home page additions, AR revenue in the revenue statistic panel, Google Maps, and recur pay additions."

Those who have used the DigitalRez reservation service have made positive comments about the system. "I have been a user of Digital Rez since 1998," says Joyce L. on their website. "Change is hard. RezExpert didn't do everything of the previous program; but the support and followup of the the staff is amazing. They are continually striving to meet the needs of their customers. Questions and problems are addressed in a timely manner. I am getting more comfortable with the new program and appreciate how my concerns have been addressed."
