Smordin Law would like to announce their YouTube channel, which helps provide information on legal services available in Ontario and at Smordin Law. These videos offer information on Smordin Law by providing a biography of the founder and senior counsel, Sandee Smordin, as well as the services that they offer. Beyond this, the YouTube videos discuss legal services in Ontario, and help with how to go about getting help. The videos also provide tips on choosing legal representation. The goal of the videos is to help members of the public seeking legal support understand how the court process works prior to seeking counsel and letting them prepare for the process.

Most notably and recently, they have added a series of videos all about Legal Aid Ontario in various regions that Smordin Law services. Specifically in cities such as Hamilton, Brampton, Guelph, St. Catharines, Welland, and Kitchener. These videos discuss how Legal Aid operates in these regions in Ontario, as well as how to obtain Legal Aid coverage. They are meant to give those looking for legal services information and advice about how Legal Aid can assist with retaining private lawyers such as the ones at Smordin Law.

Legal Aid Ontario is a publicly funded non-profit corporation that provides Legal Aid to low-income residents in Ontario. They are responsible for administering the legal assistance within the province of Ontario, Canada. Smordin Law offers services in conjunction with Legal Aid, as the videos show. More than simply an advertising piece, these videos focus on the legal client and attempt to provide information that would be valuable to those seeking legal aid or assistance. Smordin Law's YouTube channel therefore helps people seeking legal counsel understand and access Legal Aid in Ontario as it relates to their region, explaining various aspects of how Legal Aid functions.
