

Cardea Luxe Skin Care Company Announces Official Opening

October 11, 2016

October 11, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cardea Luxe Skin Care in Reno, Nevada, has officially announced the opening of the company. The company specializes in cosmetics with a focus on products that promote healthy and youthful looking skin.

Joseph Meli with the company says, "We are happy to officially be up and running, and want to assure our customers that we always have their best interests at heart, particularly with regards to their skin."

Meli points out that the company offers skin care products that are designed to help their customers feel better about themselves. He says that the company offers products that contain scientifically proven ingredients that are effective in keeping skin healthy. The products offered have been proven to show visible results while being environmentally friendly and safe for customer use.

"We pay strict attention to detail," says Meli. "We place great care in the creation of all of our products, with the goal of ensuring that our customers receive the best, most effective products available in the market today."

In addition to their line of products, the company also provides skin care tips to clients that help them to enjoy smoother, healthier, and younger looking skin, according to Meli. He says that all of their products are designed to delay signs of aging and reverse wrinkles and other skin issues, using three synergistic steps. Advice is also offered as to how to use the company's products as well as everyday tips for better skin.

The company states that all products contain natural and organic ingredients that will revitalize skin without harming the customer or the environment. Products are manufactured in laboratories that do not promote animal testing, are FDA registered and GMP compliant, and have in-house quality control systems in place.

Cardea Luxe Skin Care states that their product lines can be used by both men and women alike, and that they partner with experts to create treatments based on exclusive techniques. Meli says that a number of products designed to fight the signs of aging on the skin are now available, and that the company is constantly working to develop new products to add to their existing line.

Those interested in learning more about this new company and the products that they are now offering can visit them on their official website.
