Las Vegas, Nevada based SEO company, Digital Real Estate Specialist, has announced a new realm of services for local clients. The company recently launched Instagram marketing for businesses in and around the Las Vegas area. Richard Gillman, a spokesperson with the company says that an Instagram feed of a business is the second most visited website next to Facebook.

"It's astounding how many people use Instagram," Gillman says. "Simply put, if you aren't utilizing this method of reaching your potential customers, you're missing out on potential income."

The company states that global revenue of Instagram is expected to top nearly $3 billion. Gillman states that this is a large portion of revenue that business owners can use to their advantage through social media marketing. The company launched its Instagram marketing Las Vegas services to assist local businesses in capitalizing on this income stream.

"We want to help you to increase awareness of your business and ultimately boost your bottom line," Gillman explains. "Marketing to customers via Instagram and various other social media sites has proven to be one of the best ways of reaching your targeted audience."

Gillman states that they can provide clients with Instagram marketing tips that will enable them to fully utilize this technique. He states that Instagram has more than 400 million users currently, of which more than 60 percent log in on a daily basis. The company states that anyone not using Instagram for business purposes could be missing out on serious customer base increases.

Gillman also says that whether businesses have an Instagram account or need one to be established for them, the company can drive active organic followers to that account, which will ultimately create a better awareness of the business and a greater income stream.
