October 31, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Lisa Swanson L.Ac., owner and operator of Dharma Acupuncture, which has just recently opened a clinic in Grass Valley, CA, is proud to celebrate her ninth year as a practitioner of traditional Chinese medicine. Her primary healing modalities are acupuncture and herbology. She specializes in the management of pain, digestive disorders, reproductive health, oncology, respiratory issues, addiction, and general wellness. Although Lisa has been providing acupuncture in Grass Valley only recently, she has been treating patients with acupuncture and Chinese herbs for the past nine years.

Lisa Swanson from Dharma Acupuncture says: "I have been involved in natural medicine for more than 15 years, and I became a traditional Chinese medicine practitioner nine years ago. My extensive experience in acupuncture allows me to help my patients with regards to pain, stroke rehabilitation, cancer treatment, fertility, and even facial rejuvenation."

As a Traditional Chinese Medicine Practitioner, Lisa offers a number of very important services including wellness management, and the use of Chinese herbs in Grass Valley.

She has helped many cancer patients, but equally works within obstetrics and pediatrics. Furthermore, she specializes in pain cases, and has helped many people with acupuncture for low back pain.

Those who have used Lisa's services have been very happy with the results. "Lisa is a highly skilled and intuitive acupuncturist, I was a patient of Lisa's for over 5 years when she had her practice in San Diego area," says Jennifer R. on the clinic's website. "It was a great loss to have her relocate to Phoenix. From pain relief to circulation to digestive issues and knotted muscles Lisa knows how to perform her medical art to heal the patient. She is great at scheduling appointments to meet the needs of clients. Provides supplemental herbal remedies only when required and has an amazing bedside manner. If you are looking for an acupuncturist that combines knowledge and compassion Lisa is the one to see. Lisa also does cupping therapy in conjunction with acupuncture and it is truly a healing experience. We miss her."

Those who require pain management services in particular are encouraged to contact Dharma Acupuncture as soon as possible to see whether Lisa is able to provide them with assistance and relief. Lisa points out that a life free from pain is possible through natural forms of healing.
