October 25, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Bearded Colonel offers a premium quality subscription shaving service for the ultimate gentleman. The package includes brush and soap for full shaving needs.

London, UK: The Bearded Colonel are pleased to announce the launch of their subscription razor blade services across the EU. The service is the ultimate in male grooming needs with a monthly package delivered to the customer's home or office. The subscription can be managed to fit the exact needs of each customer, whether shaving is done daily or only a few times per week. The blades are manufactured in Germany by a century old factory with a long-standing reputation for the best blades available.

In recent years, shaving products have become more cheaply made and as a result are lower in quality. The blades become dull quickly and the shave is uncomfortable and the blades don't do a good job. The morning grooming routine becomes one which is unpleasant and sometimes even painful. Using the services and products from The Bearded Colonel provides high-quality products delivered to the customer's home on a regular basis.

According to Alex Jordan, speaking in a recent interview, "The Gothic Arch II is the Rolls Royce of razors and is manufactured by our German partners. The blade has an inverted bevel like a barber's straight razor, which makes it one of the sharpest available. The inverted arches ensure strength where it is needed. The German precision makes it possible to get an extra smooth shave repeatedly."

The shaving supplies being offered to the customer begin with a free handle and the first set of four cartridges. Each month following, a fresh shipment of cartridges is shipped. The company plans an expansion beyond the current shipping area of the UK. Customers receive quality products at a fair price with no long term contracts or subscriptions. The frequency of billing is set according to the customer's preferences and gift subscriptions are available. Subscriptions can even be paused for a period of time.
