November 04, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Anne R. Moses, an attorney for a law firm in Birmingham, Alabama, was recently appointed to the advisory board of a nonprofit organization. This organization provides women entrepreneurs in various sectors with the opportunity to interact and develop alliances with others.

"I am honored to have been appointed to the Advisory Board of Alabama Women in Business. The Board is composed of past presidents of the organization to provide counsel to the Board of Directors," said Anne R. Moses, Certified Elder Law Attorney.

Alabama Women in Business encourages and educates women who own and operate their own businesses by improving overall business environments and supporting women in established businesses. They foster leadership in women entrepreneurs across the state. The organization chooses women entrepreneurs to serve on their advisory board that have shown strong leadership skills and those who have shown success in the business world.

Moses received a bachelor's degree from Barnard College, Columbia University in New York and her Juris

Doctor from St. John's University School of Law. She is a certified Elder Law Attorney and is engaged in estate and business planning as well as elder law planning and estate and trust administration. She co-founded the Elder Law Services Committees of the Birmingham Bar Association and the Alabama State Bar, and currently practices with Moses & Moses, P.C.

"It has always been my passion to assist others," says Moses.

Moses & Moses specializes in business, tax, and probate law in the Birmingham area. The law firm has a staff of experienced business, tax, probate, estate planning, and elder lawyers that help clients to plan and solve a wide variety of family and business issues.
