November 10, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

TheVoIPHub, a business in Gunnison, CO, is proud to announce that they have updated their website to include information about the new Ooma products. Specifically, they have added a new Ooma Telo review, providing an expert view on what this system involves. Overall, the website that focuses on providing information on VoIP systems, highly recommend the Ooma systems.

Mr. J.L. Chettle, President and CEO of TheVoIPHub, says: "Ooma is a VoIP telecommunications company that was founded in Palo Alto, CA in 2004. The company's strategy is focused on saving people money on both residential and business phone services. They are able to serve both commercial accounts and everyday consumers by dividing their services into 'Ooma Office' and 'Ooma Home'. Ooma Home is then further split into both basic and premier levels."

Within the review, TheVoIPHub provides a detailed look at all the features and functions of the system itself. These include the phone services they offer, an overview of Ooma Home, their devices, their prices, features, mobile applications, and savings. An extensive FAQ section is also included. The review then provides a similar overview of the Ooma Office product, looking at the same details. The website then discusses some of the important things to look into, including call quality and customer service, before discussing the pros and cons of the Ooma system.

"There is a lot of good to say about Ooma and not a lot of bad," adds Mr. Chettle. "The company provides excellent service with excellent reviews, for both businesses and residential homes. They are very thorough in providing a lot of features and also offer their services at incredibly low, rock-bottom prices. We are used to seeing cheap VoIP companies that provide inferior customer service or limiting the features but that is not the case here."

Overall, TheVoIPHub highly recommends the Ooma options to those who are looking at switching to VoIP from a regular landline provider, or those who want to switch their current VoIP provider. The company encourages people to follow them on Twitter to remain up to date with further review, or to add their own comments.
