Auto repair shop, Independence Auto (IA), occupying a space in JGM Properties' New Hope Property is a full service preventive maintenance and auto repair shop, specializing in inspection, brake repair, tire service, exhaust systems, transmission repair, and more.

"For years IA has been performing auto repairs in New Hope, and they have built a reputation for hard work, honesty, and customer service," says Cory Larson of Independence Auto.

The performance and lifespan of any vehicle are tied very strongly to how well the vehicle is taken care of. Regular maintenance is critical if someone wants to get the most out of their vehicle and ensure that it keeps running smoothly for years to come.

Independence Auto will test or replace a customer's car battery, rotate their tires, install seasonal tires, change the oil, replace windshield wipers, or if customers need any other type of routine maintenance performed on their vehicle.

Many states require that all motor vehicles are regularly inspected, but booking annual safety inspections is a good practice regardless of whether or not it's legally required to. A thorough safety inspection provides all the details about how every part of the vehicle is functioning.

"As certified safety inspectors, IA provides customers with a detailed inspection that will report on the health of each part of their vehicle. IA will also list any repairs that are necessary, as well as systems customers may need to keep an eye on or repair in the future," says Larson.

Modern vehicles have computerized systems designed to monitor engine performance and emissions. These reminders are often delayed, or ignored altogether, resulting in additional issues and damages to the vehicle.

"Vehicles check engine light indicates that the sensors have detected something is wrong with the engine, but typically does not give any more information than that. This is why it's important to bring the vehicle in to be serviced when customers see the light. Even if it is driving fine now, the vehicle is trying to alert owners to an issue that may become a larger problem in the future," says Larson.
