November 17, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Minden, NV company DenadaDance has announced that they are happy to see that their toe separator has provided hammer toe relief to over 100 people. The company has noted that the feet are often the most forgotten part of the human body. Considering that the feet carry people's weight all day, it is perhaps no surprise that people experience various problems, including hammer toes, bunions, toe drift, and overlapping toes.

DenadaDance's Elena Vera says: "Hammer toes and the many other foot conditions, are incredibly painful, impeding the feet from being able to function properly. When we have painful feet, it really limits our ability to function and to have a good quality of life. We are so happy to see that so many people have found relief thanks to our toe separator."

The hammer toe relief set contains four gel toe spacers, made up of two medium and two large ones. This ensures that they can be used by all people, between any toes. They have been designed to relieve the pain of bunions, hallus valgus, overlapping toes, and toe drift. The gel toe spacers are made from a soft gel, separating the big toe from the second toe, thereby relieving the pressure of bunions.

Elena Vera adds: "With a bunion, the big toe angles toward the second toe and may even press against it, creating new problems such as a corn. Our gel toe spreaders will also help realign the big toe, resisting some of the soft tissue stress associated with a bunion and hallus valgus."

The DenadaDance toe spacers set for hammer toe relief come with a loop that attaches to either the big or second toe. This stops the spreader from slipping to ensure that it provide continuous relief. The spacers have been designed to be soft and comfortable, so that they are easy to wear. Made from highly durable materials, they can last for month.

Having received many positive reviews from people who have stated that the spreaders are comfortable and very effective, the company has also not hesitated to include a lifetime satisfaction guarantee with every purchase. To date, they have not yet had any returns on their product.
