

DenadaDance Releases Spacers Set For Hallux Valgus Relief

November 15, 2016

November 15, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

DenadaDance, a company based in Minden, NV, has released a set of toe spacers several months ago but in an effort to gauge customer appreciation first, they have kept the release pretty quiet. The company has now announced that the DenadaDance spacers set for hallux valgus relief has received 128 reviews, 105 of which are either four or five stars on Amazon. This has made it a best selling item with an average rating of 4.5 stars.

Elena Vera from DenadaDance says: "We wanted to create something that would actually benefit people in the long run. It is one of the reasons why we actually kept the release pretty quiet, because we wanted to make sure people didn't just like them after a few days of wearing them but that they found long lasting relief. We have received such overwhelmingly positive reviews that we feel it is now truly time to announce our product to the world."

The hallux valgus relief spacers have been used by a huge variety of people, including both men and women. While toe issues are more common in women, as today's fashion often forces them to wear shoes that can lead to a range of problems, men can also suffer from them. Both men and women have stated that they have experienced great relief in a short period of time. In fact, one woman who suffers from arthritis has been able to use the toe spacers in order to reduce her pain by 95% and to avoid surgery on her feet as well.

There have been a few less than positive reviews. One felt that the spacers were difficult to clean and that they had split after a few months of use. Listening to their customers, DenadaDance had made some modifications so that the product now has a lifetime guarantee. The customer declined to have her spacers replaced due to finding the spacers hard to clean. "We were very sorry to hear that our customer did not want the exchange due to cleaning issues," adds Elena, "particularly because she expressed that she did get hallux valgus relief. We really encourage people to contact us should they have any issues, and they are always covered under our lifetime guarantee."
