Minden, Nevada based company, DenadaDance, has previously released a product onto the Amazon marketplace that is designed to help with the pain from hallux valgus. The company reports that this product has become a top seller in its category, due to its effectiveness and that it has gained massive positive reviews since its initial launch.

"The DenadaDance hallux valgus corrector is specifically designed to help eliminate the pain associated with this condition," says Elena Vera, a spokesperson for the company. "We've gotten so many email and messages from customers who tell us how great it works."

Hallux valgus, otherwise known as bunions, is a deformity of the toes that can cause massive pain. Technically, the condition exists when there is a deviation of the first metatarsal and the big toe. The condition leads to painful motion of the joint, particularly when wearing shoes. While there are extreme treatment options, including surgery, most people with this condition simply live with the pain or find relief in products such as the hallux valgus corrector from DenadaDance.

"People tell us all the time how much pain relief they get with our toe separators," says Vera. "It's wonderful to be able to help our customers to live pain free."

The company's soft gel toe spreaders or spacers separate the big toe from the second toes. With hallux valgus, the big toes tend to angle toward the second toe, often pressing against the toes which is what causes pain and can lead to corns. The gel toe spreaders are designed to keep this pressure off the toes and help to realign the big toe, which in turn relieves the soft tissue stress that is often associated with the condition.

The toe separators help to relieve pain from hammer, mallet, or claw toes, and can straighten problem toes, separate overlapping toes, and relieve pain caused from a number of orthopedic conditions. MMS at Amazon says, "These have already helped, within a few days, to relieve the bunion pain and seem to be helping realign my big toe." Marina says, "I felt some discomfort the first day I used it, but it was very comfortable on the second day on, and I can use it all day without any problem."

Those looking for more information about the various conditions that the toe separators can help with can visit the company on their official website.
