November 16, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

DenadaDance is a company in Minden, NV, that develops various products to help different foot ailments, including bunions, corns and hammer toes. They believe that, rather than having to opt for medical treatment, including pharmaceutical products and surgery, natural solutions are out there as well. For this reason, they have recently launched their new line of DenadaDance natural bunion pain relief, a product that is already proving to be very popular.

Elena Vera, spokesperson for DenadaDance, says: "We are very quick to reach for painkillers nowadays, but this isn't really a solution. Pain is a symptom of an underlying condition, which means that painkillers only treat the symptom, not the condition itself. We believe that there is a natural way to stop yourself from developing foot problems, and to allow them to heal quickly and naturally as well. This can be achieved through our bunion pain relief set."

The bunion pain relief set comes with a toe separator and bunion protector for each foot. It is made of a soft, comfortable, stretchy gel material, enabling it to fit on virtually any foot. The toe separator is vital for the prevention of corns, bunions, and other such issues, as these develop when a toe overlaps (usually the big toe over the second toe). The bunion protector, meanwhile, provides a cushion for the sensitive skin of the bunion while it heals, thereby ensuring people can be comfortable regardless of their activities.

"We are very happy to hear that so many people have found relief in using our natural bunion pain relief product," adds Elena Vera. "We want to make sure that people learn how to properly look after their feet, and that there are solutions out there for them to prevent these types of ailments, or to encourage rapid healing so that further problems don't develop."

The natural bunion pain relief is currently exclusively available on Amazon, where it has already received numerous positive reviews, despite having been launched only a short period of time ago. People are encouraged to contact DenadaDance for further information on their products and how to use them.
