London firm offers its list of the best binary options brokers in a recent ranking. The top ten firms in the industry are described and compared.

London UK: DWHM Trading is pleased to announce the release of its list of the best binary options brokers. The firms are listed from 3.5 stars to 5 stars out of a possible 5. For novices and professionals alike, choosing a top broker is an important element for success. The list can be seen at <http://www.dwhm.org/binary-options-brokers.html>.

For each firm on the top ten list, additional information is provided. The location of the head office is identified, the methods of payment accepted, minimum and maximum trade and minimum deposit required. The description also states whether the firm accepts U.S. Traders.

The firms which are included on the list are Option Rally, 24 Option, Stock Pair, and Porter Finance, all of which are credited with five stars of a possible five. Boss Capital and Traderax each have 4.5 stars. Trade Rush and Magnum Options are awarded four stars and Option Bit and Red Wood have 3.5 stars each.

The website also offers a number of tips which are helpful in choosing the best broker for personal binary options trading. Choosing one of the brokers from the top-ranked list is a starting point. The bonus offers that are listed by some brokerage houses should not be given too much credence since they can be withdrawn at any time.

The size of the minimum deposits and trade size can be important for those on a low budget. The accepted methods for deposit must match the preferred deposit methods of the trader. Not all brokers accept Western Union or MoneyGram, for example. Other features to check include payout methods, timing, and minimums.

Because personal experience is the best measure of working with a broker, one approach which can be taken is to open small accounts with more than one broker and make a trade or two. This will provide the experience with the professionalism and customer service attitudes of the firm.
