Zombiedisasterkits.com has announced that their popular men's travel kits will be included in a lightning deal to be held on the Amazon marketplace. Jillian Gregg with the company recently announced that the lightning deal featuring the toiletry bag will be held on November 20, time TBD.

"We're pleased to announce that our men's travel toiletry bag will be part of this amazing sale period on Amazon," Gregg states.

The Vancouver, Washington based company states that their travel bag has become a very popular product on the marketplace, which prompted them to include it in the lightning deal coming up this month. The 11 inch by 9 inch by 3 inch personal travel organizer is designed to hold full sized products. When not in use, the bag folds flat for easier storage or packing.

"The kit also includes two additional clear bags to hold liquids and gels that are required for screening in airports," Gregg states. "This is a great travel bag, and given the deal that we're offering, it will make a wonderful gift for the man in your life this holiday season."

Gregg states that the black case has a canvas finish and a hanger to make it easier to store toiletries when traveling. It is machine washable and the zipper allows for easy opening and closing of the bag's contents.

The company states that the bag is designed to handle all sorts of products from toiletries to electronics, cables, and adapters. They also offer a lifetime warranty and a customer satisfaction guarantee for risk free purchases. Gregg states that these are added benefits to the price, which will be significantly reduced for the upcoming lightening deal. She says that the company hopes customers will find the deal more than satisfactory and purchase a bag for all of the male travelers on their shopping lists.

ZombieDisasterKits provides a wide selection of consumer products. The company has not stated if additional products will be offered on any of Amazon's lightening deals, which are typically scheduled regularly throughout the Christmas holiday shopping season.
