

iHostVPS Slashes Costs to Attract Small Website Owners

November 14, 2016

November 14, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

iHostVPS has slashed its costs to deliver Windows VPS services; in a move that could see the Canada based business get the attention of new and existing small website owners in need of VPS services all around Canada, the US and UK.

iHost VPS provider announced the deduction of its costs in a forum for website owners held in Quebec yesterday, becoming only one of a few VPS providers that offer high quality services from monthly fees of as low as $9.99. Their introduction of cheap VPS services will be a great step towards helping upcoming website owners experience high performing websites and more online resources as the company's spokesperson noted.

"We have slashed subscription costs for our Windows VPS because we want every website owner who doesn't like the inconvenience of shared hosting to have a more convenient option. Also, we want you all who experience challenges trying to control their website to access the resources that come with Windows VPS hosting and seize them," Mr. Melanie Charlery, the company founder said.

iHost move comes at a time when many website owners are feeling choked-up by the poor reliability and difficult scalability of shared hosting. Many are the people who have in recent times resolved to VPS hosting even where the services were a bit more expensive. Susan Denville for instance, an owner of three websites focused on selling clothes, says that she would rather pay more for VPS hosting than struggle with the multiple limitations and reliability issues that come with shared hosting. She also praises iHost for hosting her websites and offering great services to her.

?Since I started working with iHost services mid-last year, my websites have always been smooth and seamless. Today I can install any software I need with ease; I have more control on what I do with my sites and am glad I can always access good customer services when I need them,? Ms. Denville noted during the website owner?s forum. ?I actually find VPS hosting cheaper now that I have learnt the many benefits it offers to website owners. I think anyone with a website should consider VPS services.?

Although VPS hosting has not been so popular few years back, it is already promising to overtake shared hosting in the next few years. The introduction of cheap VPS by iHost also sets a great beginning for the revolution of website hosting. Clients with the need to increase their root access, RAM, hard drives and the speed of their websites can now access these peripherals without having to dig deep into their pockets.

It is unclear though as to whether people already accustomed to Shared hosting will feel motivated to shift to a newer and less popular option. All the same, the benefits of cheap VPS hosting are expected to become clear with time, and as such it might become in the interest of every website owner to learn more about the services before jumping aboard.
