Adelaide South Australia: Welding Industries of Australia, Australia's leading supplier of welding equipment and consumables, are offering a bonus welding helmet with the purchase of selected Weldmatic and Weldarc welders.

From October 1st until the 31st of December a bonus WIA Blue welding helmet will be offered to those who purchase a WIA single phase welder. Machines included are the Weldmatic 190, 270, 270C, 270C, and 200i, along with the new inverters, including the Weldmatic 250i MIG and multi-process machine and the Weldarc 200i AC/DC Arc and TIG welder.

The company says the offer doesn't stop there, as WIA is also offering a Miller Digital Elite Inferno welding helmet with the purchase of any WIA three phase welder. Machines included are the Weldmatic 356, 396, Fabricator and also the brand new MIG and multi-process inverters, which include the Weldmatic 350i and 500i. The promotion is by redemption only, so customers purchasing one of the eligible machines will need to redeem their helmet online via the WIA website

The extensive range of WIA welders, including MIG welders, have all been designed in Australia by a team of technically focused professionals who are knowledgeable about customer and market needs. Designed specifically for Australian conditions, the range covers various industries including, rural, construction, automotive, medium to heavy fabrication and general industrial fabrication, plus on-site maintenance. Because WIA always has their customer in mind, all products are also supported by an Australia-wide sales and service network for convenience and peace of mind.

For more information on all of the WIA welding machines, visit the equipment page on our website. Here customers will find category selection charts, product specifications sheets and all product information on the range of MIG welders, multi-process welders and Arc and TIG welders. Plus, there is extensive information on the company's partner brand products, including Miller equipment and Hobart filler metals.

For those looking to take advantage of the promotion, stockists of WIA's MIG welders, multi-process welders and Arc and TIG welders, can be found by visiting the 'where to buy?' page on the WIA website at www.welding.com.au.
