Cardea Luxe Releases Information On How Retinol Can Improve Wrinkles

November 16, 2016 -
Cardea Luxe Skin Care, based in Reno, Nevada, announced that they have released a new article that provides information on how retinol can help to improve wrinkles. The company offers a retinol eye cream that has been found to eliminate wrinkles around the eyes quickly and effectively.

The new detailed article covers the benefits of retinol in eye creams and what users need to know about skin care as it relates to the prevention of premature skin aging. "It's a very detailed article," says Joseph Meli with Cardea Luxe Skin Care. "We wanted to help women and men to better understand how retinol works and why it is an essential part of their skin care routine."

Retinol is a form of Vitamin A and has been observed to help significantly reduce signs of aging and sun damage on the skin. Meli says that while most people have heard of retinol, many are unaware of the real benefits of this ingredient, which is available in a number of skin care products on the market today. He states that the eye cream that his company offers contains retinol, which has been noted to trigger skin cells to stimulate the production of elastin and collagen.

"The loss of collagen is the reason your skin sags and shows wrinkles," Meli says. "In order to replenish collagen, you need retinol to boost your body into producing more of this compound, and that's what our eye cream does."

Cardea Luxe's eye cream, which can be seen at http://www.cardealuxe.com, has become quite a popular product since it was first introduced a short time ago. The company states that women as well as men have raved about the effects, and Meli states that it works as well as it does because of the inclusion of retinol in the eye cream.

The company states that while there are a number of over the counter skin care products that claim to include effective amounts of retinol, most do not. Meli says that new detailed article explains more about how to find a product that contains adequate amounts of retinol and outlines the many benefits of using products that include this ingredient.
